My working day starts very early. From Monday to Friday I get up at half past four and I have a shower and a cup of coffee. I usually leave the house at ten past five because the company car always arrives a few minutes early. I get to the residence at about half past six and change clothes. The day shift at the nursing home starts at seven o'clock and finishes at three o'clock. I don't have much experience in people caring yet, but the staff training coordinator, Mrs Holly is very helpful and she makes things easy for me. Then I leave at a quarter past three. After that, I go shopping and visit some friends. I get home at five o'clock. A woman helps me with the housework and the ironing. I read a newspaper and do some work.

Then my husband gets home at half past six in the evening and I cook dinner. We stay at home in the evening. We don't go out because I go to bed very early. We usually watch television and then I go to bed at half past nine. I'm usually asleep by ten o'clock.

I think my job is very interesting but I don't like getting up very early. What I like best is to be able to help people, especially those with disabilities or special needs. Giving advice to families and dealing with dementia users who react aggressively is not one of my strongest points, but Mrs Holly says I need to get in touch with those aspects progressively because it is a matter of time.
